

Elangomat Task List

Wear your Sash

Flip it over so the white side is up. This will help identify you as an Elangomat throughout the weekend.

Stay at Check-in

Your clan members will be sent to you as soon as they are checked-in.

Escort Candidates to tent set up

Learn each of their names as you go and take note of any allergies or medical conditions that will need to be addressed.

Pass out the Booklets and follow Schedule

The weekend schedule and booklets will be given to you at check-in.

Be social at Cracker Barrel

Get to know your Candidates during Cracker Barrel. Establishing a buddy-type relationship with your clan will show them they can trust you. Complete and return the Candidate Information Sheet.

Escort Candidates to the Amphitheater

Make sure you and your clan have all of your overnight gear. Place your clan on their own row, as close to the front as you can, with yourself seated at the far right end of the row.

Escort Candidates to the Pre-Ordeal Ceremony

As you file out, you'll be the first in line as you leave the row and lead your clan.

Stand with your clan during the ceremony

Do everything they do including stepping forward and testing the bow. When they are given the four challenges, you also must again undertake those challenges, including the pledge of silence.

Escort your clan to the overnight site

Make sure you know where everyone is and how many candidates are in your clan.

Maintain the Vows of Silence as you work

Suppress casual talking non-verbally. Remind talkers that the pledge of silence Meteu challenged them with is still in effect and that they should spend their time contemplating the Ordeal.

If there is a need, such as giving directions during the work project, its okay to speak but make it as brief as possible.

After the Ordeal Ceremony:

Congratulate our new Brothers by name and make sure they make it to their chapter table at Cracker Barrel

After the Ordeal:

Encourage them to attend further events and to work toward their Brotherhood. Let them know that they'll gain a deeper understanding of the Order if they attend another Ordeal.
